

Key Information for the special theme: Homophily in Social Networks

Editors

Dr. Marc Esteve del Valle (University of Groningen, Centre for Media and Journalism Studies). Corresponding author. E-mail: m.esteve.del.valle@rug.nl

Drs. Silvia Donker (University of Groningen, Department of the History of Philosophy).

Short bio editors:

Dr. Marc Esteve del Valle: He is an Assistant Professor at the Department of Media and Journalism Studies at the University of Groningen (the Netherlands). His research and teaching interests lie at the intersection of digital communication networks and social change, with a particular interest in online environmental politics.

Drs. Silvia Donker is a lecturer in Digital Humanities and a PhD student working on social and semantic networks of early modern natural philosophy at the University of Groningen. She is interested in the study of networks to better understand human culture and practice, both past and present.

Structure of the articles in the special theme

1. Intelligencers, Cliques and Stars in the Spread of Seventeenth-Century Cartesianism
2. Networks and Influence in Scottish Enlightenment Publishing
3. Homophily Versus the Generalized Other
4. Framing Otherness on Twitter: Gender, Elections and Networks
5. Exploring Echo Chambers in Twitter Conversation during Two Spanish Regional Elections: An Analysis of Community Interactions