

The importance of the Authorship and conflicts of interest statement and Copyright forms in the editorial policy of Romanian Journal of Orthopaedic Surgery and Traumatology

Romanian Journal of Orthopaedic Surgery and Traumatology (ROJOST) is an open access, peer-reviewed online and printed journal that publishes articles related to clinical and research studies of orthopaedic surgery and traumatology, at the same time providing access of authors to an exchange of clinical and scientific information in the field of Orthopaedics.

As far as orthopaedic research is concerned, we are witnessing a development of new technologies and, as a result, a growth in clinical research in the following fields: traumatology, foot and ankle surgery, joint replacement, tumor management, etc.

ROJOST encourages the publication of multidisciplinary research, which through its open access policy offers visibility of articles published to a worldwide audience. Articles from both Romania and other countries are welcomed. The journal publishes the latest researches in clinical and experimental orthopaedics.

Articles are published only after Authorship and conflicts of interest statement and Copyright forms have been signed by the authors. The authorship form refers to all persons who meet the authorship criteria, are listed as authors, and certify that they have participated sufficiently in the work to take public responsibility for the content, including participation in the concept, design, analysis, writing, or revision of the manuscript. Each author certifies that the material has not been and will not be submitted to or published in any other publication. Also, all persons who have made substantial contribution to the work in the manuscript, but do not meet the criteria for authorship, are mentioned in the Acknowledgement section.

Regarding the conflict of interest, it occurs when the individual's objectivity is possibly compromised by a desire for financial gain, professional advancement or a successful outcome. The authorship and conflicts of interest statement is signed by all the authors listed in the manuscript to indicate agreement that the information is true and correct.

As an author of an article published in Romanian Journal of Orthopaedic Surgery and Traumatology, you donate the copyright but you are free to use information from it while citing the source properly.

The copyright transfer covers the exclusive right to electronically store, reproduce and distribute the article complete or in part, throughout the world, including publish, reprints, translations, photographic reproductions, electronic form, or any other reproductions of similar nature. At the same time, the corresponding author warrants that the article is original and has not been previously published elsewhere in a similar form, and that he/ she is the author of the article, except for the material that is clearly identified as to its original source, with permissions from the copyright owners. Should the article contain any material protected by the copyright of others, it is the author's responsibility to obtain permission from the copyright owner to reproduce any such material in his/ her work prior to its submission and subsequent publication. Responsibility for the content of the article rests upon the authors, not Romanian Journal of Orthopaedic Surgery and Traumatology. Moreover, the authors retain all proprietary rights, other than copyright, such as patent rights.

All the articles published in Romanian Journal of Orthopaedic Surgery and Traumatology are freely and permanently available online immediately upon publication, without subscription or registration.
